

True Potential Aggressive Portfolio

Portfolio Objective

The objective of the True Potential Aggressive Portfolio is to provide investors with a way to achieve their investment goals. The Portfolio offers full exposure to different manager styles within the Aggressive risk profile. We review the Portfolio monthly and, if necessary, rebalance to the allocation of styles that we believe offers the best opportunity for growth within the Aggressive risk profile. The Portfolio aims to produce a higher risk-adjusted outcome at a lower average cost, compared to an equally-weighted model of Aggressive funds.

Risk Profile: Aggressive

The Aggressive Investor usually aims to maximise long-term expected returns rather than to minimise possible short-term losses. An Aggressive Investor values high returns relatively more and can tolerate both large and frequent fluctuations through time in portfolio value in exchange for a higher return over the long-term.

Investment Commentary

The True Potential Aggressive Portfolio returned -1.73% in April 2024, net of Portfolio OCF.

Global equities struggled as a stronger US inflation impulse continued to be evident, forcing investors to recalibrate expectations for possible US interest rate cuts over the next 12 months. One of the only equity regions to buck this trend was the UK, reaching new highs during the month. GBP weakened against the US dollar, while commodity prices increased alongside strong performance from Healthcare and Financial stocks, supporting the region. Higher and stickier inflation data in the US paired with robust economic growth data led global sovereign bonds yields to move higher. UK Gilts outperformed US Treasuries and index-linked bonds outperformed nominal bonds.

Within the Portfolio, the True Potential 71M Aggressive fund benefitted from having a lower allocation to equities overall, and within that, a higher weighting in the UK, which outperformed other equity regions. The True Potential Growth-Aligned Aggressive fund also performed relatively well, boosted by strong selection within their Emerging Market equity allocation, as well as by the performance of the alternative assets including Gold.

Over the period, the True Potential Pictet Aggressive fund was increased at the expense of True Potential UBS Aggressive. This change allows for a lower exposure to fixed income within the portfolio, in favour of gold and other commodities.

Over the month, managers have made changes to their individual fund allocations. Examples include additions to areas of the equity market which should benefit from higher commodity prices, such as the Energy sector and the UK index, as well as to higher yielding corporate bonds in favour of government debt more sensitive to interest rate expectations.
