

True Potential Defensive Portfolio

Portfolio Objective

The objective of the True Potential Defensive Portfolio is to provide investors with a way to achieve their investment goals. The Portfolio offers full exposure to different manager styles within the Defensive risk profile. We review the Portfolio monthly and, if necessary, rebalance to the allocation of styles that we believe offers the best opportunity for growth within the Defensive risk profile. The Portfolio aims to produce a higher risk-adjusted outcome at a lower average cost, compared to an equally-weighted model of Defensive funds.

Risk Profile: Defensive

The Defensive Investor may be very sensitive to short-term losses. A Defensive Investor's potential aversion to short-term losses could compel them to sell their investment and hold a zero risk investment instead if losses occur. Defensive Investors would possibly accept lower long-term return in exchange for smaller and less frequent changes in portfolio value. Analysing the risk-return choices available, a Defensive Investor is usually willing to accept a lower return in order to assure the safety of his or her investment.

Investment Commentary

The True Potential Defensive Portfolio produced a return of +1.73% over the month of November, net of Portfolio OCF.

Asset markets in November were positive with equities providing the highest overall returns, primarily driven by the US election. Donald Trump's victory and the Republican majority in both chambers of Congress fuelled expectations that the next government policies will extend American exceptionalism in the economy and thereby support corporate earnings growth. Against this background, US equities reached an all-time high with Trump promising favourable policies for corporates such as lower tax rates and de-regulation.

In fixed income markets, despite the Federal Reserve and the Bank of England lowering interest rates in the month, bonds only marginally benefitted. Concerns that Trump's policy proposals could reignite inflation in 2025 limited returns from US Treasuries. UK Gilts rebounded as initial concerns following the UK Budget announcement eased. In currency markets, Sterling depreciated against the US Dollar but strengthened against the Euro over the month.

Against this backdrop, the True Potential Growth Aligned Defensive fund produced the strongest return, benefitting from both a larger exposure to equities, with the majority of this allocated in the US. In fixed income, overweight allocations to UK Gilts and higher yielding corporate bonds contributed positively, as falling bond yields meant total returns were positive over the month.

Over the month, no changes were made to manager allocations in November within the portfolio with the investment team believing positioning was optimal. Although no changes have been made to manager allocations, the True Potential manager cohort have been adjusting positioning. Examples include additions to US equities in favour of European equities, and an increase to sovereign bonds, taking advantage of elevated yield levels.
