

True Potential Defensive Portfolio

Portfolio Objective

The objective of the True Potential Defensive Portfolio is to provide investors with a way to achieve their investment goals. The Portfolio offers full exposure to different manager styles within the Defensive risk profile. We review the Portfolio monthly and, if necessary, rebalance to the allocation of styles that we believe offers the best opportunity for growth within the Defensive risk profile. The Portfolio aims to produce a higher risk-adjusted outcome at a lower average cost, compared to an equally-weighted model of Defensive funds.

Risk Profile: Defensive

The Defensive Investor may be very sensitive to short-term losses. A Defensive Investor's potential aversion to short-term losses could compel them to sell their investment and hold a zero risk investment instead if losses occur. Defensive Investors would possibly accept lower long-term return in exchange for smaller and less frequent changes in portfolio value. Analysing the risk-return choices available, a Defensive Investor is usually willing to accept a lower return in order to assure the safety of his or her investment.

Investment Commentary

The True Potential Defensive Portfolio produced a return of -1.11% for the month of December.

December proved to be a challenging month for both equities and fixed income on the back of new economic projections from the US central bank, the Federal Reserve. The Fed guided to less interest rate cuts next year and greater concerns on the path of inflation leading to investors pulling back on risk. US equities underperformed the most in the month, giving back some of their impressive year-to-date outperformance. Japanese equities performed strongly, benefiting from weakness in the Japanese Yen versus the US Dollar. Within fixed income, 10 year US Treasury yields rose above 4.6%, 1% higher than mid-September, pulling back on prices. In currency, Sterling depreciated against the US dollar but strengthened against the Euro.

The True Potential UBS Defensive fund outperformed the other funds within the Portfolio. A higher weight to equities over fixed income was beneficial over the period.

Over December, no change was made to manager allocations with the True Potential Defensive Portfolio with the investment team believing that allocations are optimal. The underlying managers are actively making changes with additions to US Treasuries and global sovereign bonds, as well as increasing exposure to European equities.
